ORDER DENYING MOTION TO REDUCE SENTENCE

Pending before the Court is Petitioner Michael Williams's Motion to Reduce Sentence filed pursuant to USSG Amendment 821 [Dkt. 513]. The Government has filed its response in opposition to the motion.

Being duly advised, the Court hereby DENIES the motion, finding Petitioner ineligible for a reduced sentence based on this amendment to the Sentencing Guidelines for the reason that applying the Amendment would not result in a reduction of Petitioner's original guideline range. USSG § 1B1.10.

Pursuant to the holding in Dillon v. U.S., 560 U.S. 817, 824 (2010) and the requirements set out in the applicable statutes (ie, 18 U.S.C. § 3582(c)(2) and the Sentencing Guidelines (§§ 4A1.1(a) and (e)), the changes effectuated by Amendment 821 to the Guidelines do not apply to Petitioner because his original guideline range would not be reduced, thus making him ineligible for a reduced sentence. To qualify for relief under § 3582(c)(2), a petitioner's sentencing range must be lowered by the Amendment.

Part A of Amendment 821 alters the status points provision regarding the criminal history (USSG § 4A1.1(e)) directing the addition of 1 point (rather than 2 under the original guidelines formulation), if the defendant received 7 criminal history points and committed the offense while under criminal justice sentence as specified. A person who had six criminal history points or fewer receives no status points.

Part B of Amendment 821 allows for a 2-level reduction for (many) offenders who had zero criminal history points. There are several exceptions to eligibility for this reduction. He must meet all of § 4C1.1's criteria for eligibility, one of which requires that he not be found to have possessed received, purchased, transported, transferred, sold or otherwise disposed of a firearm in connection with the offense. § 4C1.1(a)(7).

Petitioner Williams had four criminal history points as a part of his sentencing guideline computation but no status points. Thus, even after applying § 4A1.1(e), he would have the same number of criminal history points and his guidelines range would remain unchanged. Accordingly, the Amendment does not affect his overall sentence. To be eligible for relief, the sentencing range must be lowered by the applicable amendment. He is therefore ineligible and his motion for reduction of sentence must be denied.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
